COUNTRY HOUSE, WARWICKSHIRE

This stunning country house sits just outside a typical Cotswold village in Warwickshire. The bungalow that was originally there was demolished and a new, traditional, two storey, family home built in its place. A triple garage sits to the right of the property and an annexe to the left.

The property was built using a mix of our own Cotswold stone, detailed with hand-crafted ashlar stone heads, cills and quoins. The two column natural stone portico at the front of the property makes a grand statement.

Sandstone paving provides a continuous finish around the property and complements the beautiful landscaping. The front entrance paving has a bullnose edge for a softer finish.

A hand-carved, natural stone fireplace with slate side slips and outer hearth takes centre stage in the living room, providing a great focal point, as well as warmth in the colder months.

- Stone specified: Grange Hill Grey and Cream Mix with ashlar stone dressings and portico
- Exterior paving: Huddersfield Sandstone 50mm sawn
- Interior: Natural stone fireplace with slate side slips and outer hearth
- Sector: Private residential
